

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates. The cable ownership cap is a crucial element of our democratic media, and it should not be weakened.

I think that a massive deregulation of the media will be a disaster for the public as it will put the power in the hands of too few conglomerates. The media is already close enough to being a monopoly. I don't see how this isn't a loophole around anti-trust laws.
